GEN. DI CESNOLA RELIEVED. MR. BANGS'S CROSS-EXAMINATION ENDED.

ERROR IN THE TRA SACTIONS OF THE TURIN ACADEMY-THE TITLE OF GENERAL.

Mr. Bangs resumed his cross-examination of Mr. Dangs resumed his cross-examination of General di Cesnola yesterday. After recess air, Choate asked that the cross-examination be limited by the court. Judgo Shipman refused to accede to this request. Later on questions directed to affect the crediolity of the witness were disallowed, the court ruling that the plaintiff's counsel had been accorded ample opportunity in this direction. About the middle of the afternoon, Mr. Bangs brought the cross-examination to a conclusion. They had continued precisely a week. In answer to

They had continued precisely a week. In answer to questions by the jurors, General di Cesnola said:

I was not present when the legs of the little Hercules were restored by Geiden in the Fourteenth-st. building. The work done at that time was not done directly under my orders. I had the classification of the entire collection to complete within a limited time. Russell sturges is mainly responsible for Gellen's repairs and restorations. I hold myself responsible for everything that has been done in the Park Building by Mr. Baillard.

Mr. Burne weekend a photograph of the larg. Hercules

Mr. Bangs produced a photograph of the large Hercules and his questions elicited the following testimouy:

I was aware of the fact that repairs had been made on it in Fourteenth-st. The legs were found among a pile of fragments in the field where the body was discovered and I recognized them as belonging to the body by reason of their size and conformation. I think Gehlen was generally honest in his testimony. I do not approve and did not approve of Gehlen sawing off the feet and replacing them on the base, but after the thing was done, I left it as it was. It was an improper proceeding and I do not hold myself responsible for it. An inscription on one of the statues was disclosed by cleansing, whose existence had not previously been suspected. I told Mr. Birch about it in 1881, and he said that it showed that the statue was not so old as he had at first believed. I think Professor Isaac H. Hall of Philadelphia can translate it.

Mr.Choate objected to this testimony as immaterial, and Mr.Choate objected to this testimony as immaterial, and Mr. Bangs replied that he was instructed to deny these statements of the witness respecting the inscription. Mr. Choate objected to Mr. Bangs showing the jury two pictures of statue No. 14 and comparing them, because Mr. Bangs had not repeated all the testimony in the matter. Mr. Bangs did not press the proposed exhibition. A note was read from Mr. Johnston, saying that he was sick and would be unable to appear, and that he had and would be unable to appear, and that he had given to Mr. Prime all the papers relating to the case that had been in his possession. This note was in answer to a subpeana. The papers had been handed to Mr. Prime before the subpeana had been issued and Mr. Prime had given the papers to the defendant's counsel. Mr. Bangs refused to receive them from the opposing lawyers as this entailed an obligation to read the papers in evidence. Mr. Bangs then asked General di Cesnola to produce them. He replied that he had not seen them. The papers were not produced. On redirect examination General di Cesnola said:

I saw the publication, in the transactions of the Turin Academy, respecting the temple at Golgos, in which certain measurements are given in a plan attached to my article which do not agree with the measurements as given in my book on Cyprus, 19r. Fenardent was examined at length regarding these alleged discrepancies, I wrote that article in 1870, while in Turin. All my papers were on Cyprus, I told the president of the society, Count Sclopis, that I could only give two measurements, viz.; the length, which was saxty feet, and the width, which was thirty feet. When I received the publication a year afterward perhaps, I saw that the other measurements had been supplied on the plan, but the statement was made in a foot-note that only the two measurements I refer to were put forward as being correct. They are correct and agree with those in my book.

Mr. Choate remarked that the other side had suppressed this foot-note and characterized the proceeding as a gross attempt to mislead the jury. Mr. Banes begged leave to read the testimony. He read it. The note was referred to by Mr. Fenardent, but it did not appear that it had been translated, or its significance explained. General di Ces-

I have been made an LL. D, by Princeton and Celumbia.

I was born June 29, 1832. I was educated as a soldier and served in the Crimean war. I have lost my commissions, but I have secured certified copies of them. I came to this country in 1858 or 1859, and at first taught Italian and Belies Lettres in New-York. I was put under arrest at Aldey because when I was matering to General Kilpatrick's assistance under his orders, I protested against interference on the part of a general officer. My men would not charge without me, and I broke my arrest. I charged thace, four times, and General Kilpatrick released me from arrest and presented me with his sword. Secretary Seward and Senator Harris were present when Lincoln appointed me a Brigadier General.

The photograph of a statue found by Coccalda is one.

General.

The photograph of a statue found by Ceccalde is one of the illustrations in my book. When my book was to be published in London, the Revue Archarologique sent me ail the plates of Cypriote objects which they had used. I had statuettes similar to the one reproduced in this plate, and supposed the statue was mine. I never noticed the mistake until my attention was called to it in court. I had no wish to mislead any one.

Mr. Choate put in evidence a number of official orders addressed to Colonel Cesnola, commanding cavalry brigade, and dated in 1862 and 1863. In reply to statements and implications of Mr. Bangs that the memory of ments and implications of Mr. Bangs that the inemory of General di Cesnola was better in regard to the agreement made by him with Rolim & Fenardent than it was about other matters happening at the same time, General di Cesnola said that his memory had been refreshed on that point by reason of a memorandum made in his note-book, specifying the general nature of the agreement which he wrote about the time that his correspondence on the matter was concluded.

Henry A. De Meli, on the ground of cruel treatment, has been steadily increasing. Every foot of standing room in the Special Term of the Supreme Court was taken yesterday by spectators, who followed the case with close atten-tion. Mrs. De Meli was called to the stand at 11 a.m. She testified as follows:

My husband undertook the education of our son. He had nothing to do.

My husband undertook the education of our son. He spent much of his time at home, as he had nothing to do. All his income came from his mother. The boy was occasionally disobedient, but never seriously so. He was fond of his father, although afraid of him. Mr. De Meli was dependent upon his mother, who allowed him $3.00 or $4.000 a year. When he went to Africa, I received one-third of that amount. I took Mrs. De Meli's reproofs quietly when she found fault. Mr. De Meli was particularly brutal in his treatment of me in 1880 and 1881. He once told a servant that he would kick him under the table, and when I remonstrated, Mr. De Meli replied: "That is the way I would like to treat you."

Mrs. De Meli was asked to repeat the occurrences which raised her suspicions that Mr. De Meli was intendding to send her to an asylum. She did so, and added: On the evening of the mysterious interview between Mr. De Mell and Dr. Zumpe, Mr. De Mell's motaer called, and on going away she kissed my little boy and said: "Poor child! Never mind, though; you will have me." This and other eircumstances induced me to fear my husband. In going I left a letter giving my husband the reasons for my going.

The letter was here offered in evidence by Mr. Mc-Clure. It was dated Wednesday, October 12, 1881, and was addressed to "Henry" and signed "Flossie." Mrs.

the opposite of your own. I will write you when I know where to tell you to send my things.

"P. S.—Forgive my not following your wish about two days notice. I could not have stood it. You do not know even now what I have suffered, and am suffering still." As Mr. McClure proceeded with the reading of the let-ter, Mrs. De Mell's eyes gradually filled with tears. She controlled herself by a strong effort, and when the examination went on, her voice betrayed scarcely a tremor. The court-room was almost painfully quiet during the reading, and the sympathy of the spectators was strongly moved in favor of the witness. Mrs. De Meil then described her flight in detail.

The case will so on to-day.

DAMAGES AGAINST A POLICEMAN.

A jury before Justice Larremore, in Supeme with interest from September 29, 1872, in her suit against Court Chambers, yesterday, awarded Annie J. Rogers $675 Pollecman John G. McGinn, to recover moneys paid him. Miss Rogers alleged that in 1872, she was engaged to be married to the defendant. Her father died soon afterward, and McGunn declared that he had lent the dead man $650, for which he held notes. Miss Rogers paid the sum, with $25 for interest, but when she afterward asked for the notes, McGinn gave her two receipts, one for $150 and another for $500. McGinn said that one for $150 and another for $500. McGinn said that these were given him by Mr. Rogers for money lent him. An examination of the dead man's books showed that be had, iven decision credit for money paid by the policeman on two dates, and those corresponded to the dates of the receipts. One of McGinn's receipts have evidently been raised from $100 to $500. Miss. Rogers accordingly brought suft to receiver the $675, and also a suit for breach or promise. The latter suit is pending.

McGinn, in his defence, denied that he had ever been engaged to the plaining, and declared that the receipts were given him by the deceased man.

CIVIL NOTES.

Judge Van Brunt denied yesterday the motion of the counsel of the Metropolitan Elevated Railroad Company to adjudge G. P. Morosmi in contempt of court for not producing the books of the firm of W. E. Conner & Co., showing transactions in elevated stock from May 1 to December 1, 1881. Only one witness was examined in the suit.

Surrogate Rollins yesterday directed William H.Osgood and Eliza D. Osgood, as executor and executrix respectively of the will of the late George A. Osgood, to pay the ollowing legacies: Eliza D. Osgood, the widow of the deceased man, $271,000; Ehzabeth Ann and of the deceased man, $271,000; Elizabeth Ann and Nancy Osgood, $100,000 each; Franklin and William H. Fraser, $5,000 each; Caroline A. Appieton as administratrix of Franklin Appleton, $5,000; William H. Osgood as guardian of William H. Osgood, jr., $10,000; the remainder to be held subject to the order of the Court.

TOOTHACHE AS A PEACEMAKER.

From The Detroit Free Press. General di Cesnola said that his memory had been refreshed on that point by reason of a memorandum made in his note-book, specifying the general nature of the acreement which he wrote about the time that his correspondence on the matter was concluded.

MRS. DE MELI'S SUIT FOR SEPARATION.

TROUBLE WITH A MOTHER-IN-LAW—THE WIFE'S LETTER TO HER HUSBAND.

The interest in the divorce proceedings of Mrs. Florence M. De Meli for separation from her husband, Henry A. and mutters and fools around, but the old-fashloned, jumping ache, and in two minutes she was crying. Her tears at once affected the wife of the defendant, and after a little she slid over and whispered:

"Poor thing—I'm sorry!"

"Oil such an ache!" sobled the victim.

"I brought along some peppermint and here it is," said the first as she produced the phial.

"What's all this!" asked the plaintiff as he came up, "Why, your poor wife is suffering terribly with the toothache, and I pliy her from the bottom of my heart."

"Who's not the toothache!" inquired the defendant as he joined the group.

"My wife."
"George! but that's too bad! Shan't I go to the drug store for you?"

At this the plaintiff turned about, held out his hand and replied:

At this the plantin turned about, near our as asked and epplied:
"Say, George, I was a fool to bring this suit. I called our a liar and you hit me, and that was right."
"But I'm sorry, Jim."
"Then let's drop the whole business and ride home grether and have a chicken dinner! Molly, git your let's to the state of the same and liave a chicken dinner!

clock on."

And in spite of lawyers and speciators and the queer expression of his Honor's face the plaintiff paid all costs, slapped the defendant on the back, and headed the party out-loors with the exclamation:

"Go to grass with your law and lawyers, and you women-folks stop here till George and me have a drink!"

THE COUNTRY EDITOR.

From The Atlanta Constitution.
The country editor has a hard road to travel, He ceipts small and his creditors numerous. In a small town an editor has to steer his carre so as to avoid giving offence to different circles of society, the relixious denommations, the business community, and the rural population. If an influential oid farmer wants a three column notice of his new barn, it must appear or the editor may lose a hundred subscribers. Patchwork quilts, hig beets and phenomenal exps also clamor for space in the columns of the country paper. In the course of time the rural scribe becomes either locose or morose, but in either frame of mind he continues to make friends who demand free advertising, and enemies who work against him.

The country editor is always getting ready to abandon journalism for something else, but he tarely carries out his threat. He generally dies in humess. In some wild communities editors occasionally meet with rough treatment. Sometimes they are driven out of the country, and when other methods of getting rid of them fail, they are sent to the Legislature. The city editor gets a good deal of fun out of the country editor's work, but the man who hears the burden regards it as a scrious business. And in the best sense it is scrious. The little local weeklies scattered all over the country are in their way potential factors of civilization. They develop their localities, bring their resources before the public, and in a manner educate their readers. They are always on the side of the churches, the schools, progress and reform. Men who live and die working for such objects are public benefactors and deserve a substantial reward.

NEW-YORK, Dec. 20-P. M. The day's stock market developed nothing more than a purely local speculation, that was fitful, irregular and erratic, and responsive only to influences that were made in the board-room. The two special features were the continued strength in Union Pacific and the weakness for Oregon and Transcentinental and Louisville and Naseville. A renewal of the upward mo-ement in the early dealings in Union Pacific imparted an effervescent strength to the general market and there was more or less of improvement in prices all around. After a short time, however, he market out loose from the influence of Union Pacific and prices declined below last evening's figures and continued heavy till about fifteen minutes before the close of business. The ratification of the tripartite agreement by the full Board of the Union Pacific directors was before necepted as a foregone conclusion, and its aenouncement had no effect upon the speculation; in fact, after the announcement the price of Union Pacific declined from 7738 to 7612, and the prices of other stocks interested declined in proportion. Early Union Pacific advanced from 763s to 784s, and after that held pretty steady at about 7714@7719 till it suddenly broke to 7612; but in the last quarter of an hour the price was rapidly advanced to 79, and it closed at 7814, or 78 higher than last evening. The transactions in the stock amounted to 87,600 shares, or nearly one quarter of the day's whole business in stocks. The dealings in Oregon and Transcontineutal amounted to 69,654 shares, and its price after an advance of 58 to 3614 declined to 3414 and recovered to 3558@3512 in the last hour. The Northern Pacifics were rather quiet, but their fluctuations covered ranges of 17s and 13s per cent, and their closing figures show final gains of 14 and 1 per cent. Delaware, Lackwanna and Western and Reading were notably weak, but in common with the general market made good partial recoveries at the end, and the final rally enalles the majority of the stocks to show as good or a little better figures than yesterday's close. The market closed excited. Government bonds were very dull, but strong with 18 advance in the bids for the 4128. Annexed Etate bonds were without sales, and quotations were steady. Of city bank stocks, Continental sold at 191 and Matraclitan at 154. Money at the Stock Exchange for call loans continues to indicate an unhealthy peothra; rates to-changes on New-York are as last quoted. The business in railroad bonds was confined to a few issues, and, except in one or two kinds, the dealings were very small. West Shore and Buffalo 5s continued to be active at declining figures: from 7014 they fell to 685s and rallied to 793s. Erie second.

Burlington and Quincy debenture 5s were 14 lower at 9914. Iowa division 4s sold at 8914 and Denver division 4s at 8812. Denver, Rio Graude 58 Western firsts were up 14 at 73. Northern Pacific firsts were steady at 10538@10514 and Ore-

Pacific firsts were steady at 1053s@1054 and Oregon and Transcontinental firsts dectined from 813 to 7934. Oregon Short Line firsts were up 3 to 93, and New-Orieans and Pacific firsts were 12 lower at 89.

The Sub-Treasury to-day lost on balance $496,437 made up by losses of $158,941 currency and $337,496 coin; but the general balance shows a gain of $1,003,063 because of an issue to the cash of $1,500,000 gold certificates. The day's transactions covered: Receipts $2,349,067; payments $1,345,503; currency balance $6,858,414; coin balance, $116,796,753.

THE CHICAGO MARKETS.

WHEAT AND CORN LOWER-PORK AND LARD HIGHER

IN PRICE, [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] Chicago, Dec. 20.-There were exciting little episodes in to-day's markets. The January option of corn advanced to 62 cents and there were large purchases by the office of Lester & Co. The speculation in wheat was especially dull; on the call less than half a million bushels changed hands. To night all the options are 12 cent under last night's closing prices. Corn also is 14 2 19 ent lower than twenty-four hours ago. Provisions, on the other hand, are ligher.

The receipts, especially of wheat, were larger than were anticipated. There were 230 cars of wheat and 217 cars of corn inspected; whereas last night even the railroad men predicted that there would be not over three-quarters of this number. This disappointment to the "bulls," added to the publication of the fact of a large facrease in the visible supply of wheat, turned the tide for the day. The feeling was a little heavy about the wheat pit from the start. The figures, which started at about last night's closing figures, dropped until the very close on the curb. The May option was $100°s; January,99 cents. Puts on the former option were selling at $1.00%; Calls at $1.00%. There will be no session of the Board on Monday; so the evening up process which always proceeds a boilday and which almost invariably cause cakness must go on this week. The signs are that it has already becom and that unless bad weather or war news comes in between, the feeling will be a little weak. Bad comes in between, the feeling will be a little weak. Bad weather, however, seems to be right at hand. A snow storm began to-onlish which promises to has until morning. The feature of the day was the advance in January carn, while the other options stood stool still or even declined a little. This shows that what has all along been claimed, the manipulation of January, is already going on. This is the favorite month for squeezing this grain and it looks now as if 65 or even 70 cents might be extarted from the "shorts" before the end of next month. It is already hard to trade in this option around the pit, so great is the distrust, except in settlement, but it is pretty certain that there is a big "shortage" out. When the secret of the December "deal" was let out of the bag and the panic began among the "bears" there followed a wholesale selling of January. It was argued that, while December was unsafe to sell because "cornered," January was a great sale because a reaction was certain to come. Then followed a great selling of the latter month by the men who had to recover the money they had lost before they could be even. It looks now as if they would be compelled to scramble next month just as they did this, and that instead of recovering their money they have supply put themselves in a warse position. Just before the close of the Regular Board, Lester & Co. were large sellers. Of the 217 cars of corn received to-day, 77 graded December. January corn closed at 61 secrits, May it 62 conts.

Hogs were higher at the yards and products were higher on the floor to-day. The Lester erowd claims it still has its February hog products. Even with the little ue-cline which took place on the curb to-night pork is 10 cents higher than last might. The packers were free buyers of hers at the yards, despite the fact that a quarter of the 50,000 hors in the tens this morning belonged to "scalpers," who pocketed a profit of 5 & 10 cents per hundred. Pork for February lected in the tens this morning belonged to "Redpers," who pock weather, however, seems to be right at hand. A snow storm pocketed a profit of 5#10cents per hundred. Fork for February closed at $15, lard for the same month at $9.17.9, January ribs at $7.40. The general tone of this crowd is not "bearish" on produce. There are two or wheat, and quite a number who are radical "bears" on wheat, and quite a number who feel that perhaps a little break should precede another advance. But the feeling generally is strong and confident of a further appreciation of all kinds of grain and hog products.
